Case Conference Description

In this 90-minute case conference, each facilitator will illustrate through a 20-minute case presentation how the therapeutic process can be enhanced through the potentiating effects of psychedelics like MDMA and ketamine. (Case examples are drawn from legally approved settings.) Attention will be given to analytic issues such as regression, contact with dissociated states, amplification of part-objects, transference to the medicine and to the therapist, common countertransference issues, and to the working-through or integration process following a psychedelic-assisted session. Also, participants will be invited to discuss case material of patients who are interested in or have pursued psychedelic experiences outside treatment, and the clinical issues this raises for the analyst and analytic therapist.
